evening sugine No. 22 broke her cylinder and steam chest near Barton, and had to be sent to the shops. Another coal train became partially derailed at Fushing, near where the first accident mentioned operation. The smash-up resulted in the wrecking of one car and the delay of that train. An empty train on the Bridgeport yard tracks became derailed and scattered itself over the yard in such a way as to make it impossible for insoming trains to reach the station, except by a roundabout way.

The Storm as Stunbastille.

Saturday evening's Herald says: The western blizzard has atruck this section hard. Snow began falling last night between 5 and 6 o'clock, and for an hour came down with a rapidity unprecedented in this city. By 7 o'clock about five inches was on the ground and the storm was raging with undiminished fury. At midnight the snow was ten inches deep, and the feathery flakes were still coming down. This morning it was twelve to and the feathery flakes were still coming down. This morning it was twelve to fifteen inshes deep on a level, but drifted to a minch greater depth in numerous places, while the northwestwind blew the line particles about in a manner which made pedestrianism exceedingly, disagreeable. It was just two years ago yesterday when we had the great snow storm which blockaded the streets, and subsequently produced the tremendous floods. The present snowfall, although accompanied by more wind and lower temperature, is not so deep, and unless followed quently produced the tremendous floods. The present snowfall, although accompanied by more wind and lower temperature, is not so deep, and unless followed by very heavy rains need not cause serious apprehensions of disastrous floods. Cleveland & Pittsburgh trains are running without serious delay, but the Panhandle was blockaded between here and Pittsburgh. The night mails came in all right, but no train arrived from the East to-day until after dinner. Western trains arrived this morning. Everything will doubtless be running all right this evening. It will be colder to night and to-morrow, after which the weather will moderate. The telegraph wires do not seem to have suffered severely in this vicinity. The Western Union wire between Wellsburg and Wheeling is down.

The Week of Prayer.

On last Saturday afternoon the Union prayer meeting was held in the Fourth Street M. E. Church. Notwithstanding the storm and snow, there was a good congregation and great interest was taken in the important subject under consideration, namely, "The Christian life a reproduction of Christ's life; and duties growing out of the personal indwelling of the Holy Spirit," These inter-denominational meetings have been much enthe Holy Spirit." These inter-denominational meetings have been much enjoyed by the people, and have accomplished good, from the fact that ministers and christian-workers have been brought to plead for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the ministry and the Church, upon families and schools, upon the missionaries and their work in giving the Gospel to the benighted nations, and upon all the divinely appointed agencies for bringing men to a saving knowledge of the trath.

According to reports, Al. Williams, of Doddridge county, not satisfied with being accused of two felonies, two straw bonds; two wives who were sisters, and with being the father of nineteen children, has run off with a young girl named Hyde. About three years ago the agent for Acker's English Remedy first called at this town, and since then the number of testimonials that have been sent to Logan & Co., and Charles Menkemeller con-Col. D. W. Emmone, of Huntington, has in his possession two military commissions issued to his grandfather, Asa Emmons, Eq., by the Governor of New York in 1800 and 1803. He also has a Masonic & Co., and Charles Menkemeller con cerning the merits of the Remedy, and th many cures effected surprises them. These are quaint and curious documents.

J. H. Mellon and Thomas Warden, both of Raleigh county, became involved in an alterestion a few days since, during which the former shot the latter in the right side with a pistol. Warden had at the time of the fracus a flask of powder in his pocket which was ignited and burned him badly. Mellen gave himself to the authorities and was bound over.
